What's New in San Diego: Hotel Renovations and Name Changes

In November 2009, Handlery Hotel & Resort, located in Mission Valley, will begin a $4 million renovation throughout the entire property. Improvements will include a complete renovation of all 217 guestrooms as well as public and event space. The pool deck will also be resurfaced, and the property will undergo a complete landscape redesign. Handlery Hotel & Resort will be closed from November 23, 2009 to mid-February 2010 while the construction is in process. For more information, visit www.handlery.com/sd. In September 2009, the Beach Terrace Inn in Carlsbad announced completion of an $8 million renovation that transformed the Inn into an upscale boutique property. All 48 guestrooms were completely remodeled and redesigned and now include 42-inch LCD televisions, walk-in showers, larger bathrooms, sustainable materials, environmentally friendly products and balconies that overlook the pool and Pacific Ocean. Complimentary breakfast with free room delivery and plush bathrobes are additional amenities. For more information, visit www.beachterraceinn.com. (10/09)

The Porto Vista Hotel & Suites in downtown San Diego's Little Italy neighborhood recently finished the first phase of a two-part property renovation. The hotel's 145 guestrooms have been enhanced with unique floor-to-ceiling photo murals, traditional furnishings and a touch of contemporary design. Phase two of the renovation is slated for completion in December 2009 and includes Evolve Salon, featuring a full range of professional salon services and beauty products; the Porto Vespa boutique, with a selection of Vespas, clothing, helmets and accessories for sale; a transformed Ripassi rooftop deck, available for meetings and special events; and redesigned boardrooms and banquet room.
